Syllabus for The relationship between classical formulas and the circular motion of heaven.

The primary objective of this course is to introduce practitioners to the important relationship between the movements of nature and the physiology and pathology of the body. From there, we can see how the formula patterns and formulas are designed to realign us with these movements.

8:30am to 9:30am- Classical physiology: The continuity between the cosmology of the Neiijing, Tang Ye Jing and Shang Han Lun.

9:30 am to 10:30 am – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven – Taiyang

10:30 am to 11:30 am – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven – Yangming

11:30 am to 12:30 pm – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven – Shaoyang

Lunch – 12:30 pm – 1 pm

1 pm to 2 pm – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven - Taiyin

2 pm to 3 pm – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven – Shaoyin

3 pm to 4 pm – Relationship between the foundational formulas and the movements of heaven - Jueyin

4 pm – 5 pm – Case examples to illustrate these principles
