The Mental Disorder Diagnosis and Treatment in TCM
--The mental energy theory
Joseph Yang

Course Description:

In this course the provider will discuss the shen disturbances in Traditional Chinese Medicine (TCM), regarding the general mental health issues in a wide picture and narrow it down to our clinic practice. The traditional wisdom of shen in harmony condition and disharmony patterns will be discussed. All attendees will understand the all major concepts of shen, shen qi, shen and body, shen disturbances meanings, also the comparison with DSM diagnosis.

The course will discuss on the diagnosis system and the relation between the body and shen(mind) and the diagnostic skills as well. The course will help to identify patients with mental disorders and understand clinical signs and symptoms of major psychological disorders for the diagnosis and treatment applications in TCM. The treatment will be discussed including the acupuncture, herbal strategy, TCM psycho care, and mental health preservation. Additional topics include patient-practitioner relations, communication skills, and multicultural sensitivity. The clinical cases welcomed and may be applied during the course progression with demonstration from the faculty member.
