Tricks of The Trade Continuing Education Weekend, April 21-23, 2023

7 pm-10 pm:
EXPLORING OUR OPTIONS:
NCCAOM / AOM BIO / Ethics
3 credits

With Anna Rudel, owner and founder of Lokahi Acupuncture Clinic. Anna is a master organizer and clinician. UK born, Anna has traveled extensively in Asia and now has a thriving multi-practitioner clinic in San Jose.

During this discussion-based session, we will explore the challenges of reaching a stage in practice where we have to have (or want to have) an alternative income stream in place to ensure that our financial needs are met. This segment is an open-ended discussion and brain-storming session that may extend beyond East Asian Medicine. Let's see where we end up!

SAT. APRIL 22, 7-8 am:
QI GONG with Jennifer Monin
NCCAOM / AOM OM
1 Credit

Dr. Jennifer Monin DTCM, LAc., has been practicing acupuncture and herbal medicine for over 20 years. Her herbal immersion began in 1994 when she began her apprenticeship in Western Herbal medicine while working as a naturalist on the Mendocino Coast and as a backpacking guide in the Trinity Alps. She integrates her passion for plant medicine by cultivating medicinal plants where she lives alongside a vibrant garden clinic in Sebastopol, California

Qi Cultivation: Spring Equanimity

Come gather outside for morning meditative movement cultivating deep alignment and presence. Allow yourself the space to be fully awake to what is moving in your daily life. Jennifer will lead a guided meditative series of movements rooted in Qi Gong and Yogic practices with attention to Spring.

8-9 am:
Breakfast

9 am - 12 pm:

Dr. Jennifer Bezjak will be turning her brilliant mind to the subject of:
 Treating HPA AXIS DYSFUNCTION for the TCM Practitioner:
 NCCAOM / AOM BIO
 3 credits

The course objective is to educate TCM practitioners about the application of TCM into the treatment of modern HPA Axis dysregulation-also known as the stress response or adrenal fatigue. This course will re-frame the common western understanding of a dysregulated stress response into TCM terms. Herbs and herbal formulas will be discussed in the blended context of eastern and western medicine. Application of herbal medicine in terms of dosing and duration will be taught. This course relates the scope of practice of acupuncture in California because it: Examines a western concept of HPA axis regulation/stress response and translates it to common TCM diagnoses. The proper and effective use of TCM pulses, formulas and applied acupuncture approaches will be covered and differentiated to common western presentations.

12 pm-1 pm:

Lunch

and Q and A with Jennifer B.

1 pm-5 pm:

With Dr Amy Merchant OB/GYN:

Back by popular demand, Dr Amy will be making herself available to talk about whatever we want in the field of obstetrics and gynecology.

7 pm-10 pm

How to use the Yijing (Oracle of Change) —Lindsey Koelman, L.Ac, CMQ
 NCCAOM / AOM BIO
 3 credits

The Yijing ("I Ching") is one of the world's oldest and most profound divination systems, developed in China 3,000 years ago. It is a powerful tool which can help you navigate the voyage of your life, to live in accordance with the Dao, receive direct guidance and communication from the spirit world, and help you understand the forces at work in uncertain and difficult situations. It can be used in the clinical setting as well to improve healing outcomes. Casting coins and informational text will be provided.

Lindsey is an acupuncturist, qi gong instructor, and ordained priestess who discovered the Yi Jing 20 years ago during an apprenticeship with a renowned acupuncturist, who was using it to help diagnose patients' spiritual ailments. Since then, she has been devoted to studying the oracle and consulting it throughout the decisions and challenges in her life as a healer.
