Benny Jun Lin, L.Ac., D.O.M.

Extensively educated and trained in TCM in China and the US, Benny Lin has had over thirty years of professional TCM experience in both countries.

As a TCM educator, Dr. Lin served as an associate professor at a renowned TCM University in China in his early years, and has been a popular and much praised lecturer in graduate programs in the US for the past decade, teaching such subjects as Tui-na, advanced acupuncture techniques, and acupuncture orthopedics at various TCM colleges. In addition to mentoring clinical interns, Dr. Lin offers higher level seminars in a wide range of subjects including Tui-na, Formula writing, Advanced acupuncture techniques, Abdominal acupuncture, and External application of herbs.

As a TCM practitioner, Benny Lin refined his skills as a chief TCM clinician and orthopedic doctor in China for many years, followed by nearly twenty years of working as an acupuncturist, herbalist, and Tui-na specialist in top-notch US TCM schools as well as his private clinics in New York and California. Combining his deep theoretical understanding and masterful clinical expertise, Benny Lin has developed various new treatment methods for rare and complicated diseases, specializing in orthopedics, muscular strains, pain management, and sport injuries.

As a pioneer who integrates the best of traditional and modern TCM, Benny Lin's contributions to frontier TCM studies are also represented in his notable publications including "Spine- Related Diseases" and "Masters of TCM Series/Kong Bohua", as well as the various professional affiliations and positions he holds with esteemed TCM associations worldwide.
